RXBARS

RXBARS have changed my world. I got samples a month back and immediately rushed to get them on the shelf. I am so impressed with these power-packed little bars. They are simple, nutritious and filling. The ingredients are as straight forward as the taste is delicious. With 200 calories and 12 grams of protein, this is the perfect on-the-go snack.

Dan's Power Plant Fauxmaggio Raw Vegan Pesto

When I went dairy-free, I thought that the experience of decadent, delicious pesto was over for me. Thanks to the folks at Fauxmaggio, with their new artisan raw vegan pesto, I am enjoying a full-on passion for pesto all over again. This is better than the stuff I make at home with basil from my very own garden! Fresh, sweet basil mixes perfectly with the richness of walnuts and cashews. Zesty garlic (with a hint of cayenne) puts it over the edge. A tango of flavor in my mouth.

Fauxmaggio has nailed it. Pesto so good, it makes me weep.

Kensington Apothecary Rose Cleanser

Kensington Apothecary's tag line is "State of the Art in Old World Beauty," and their blends really do call to mind traditional British and European skincare recipes from the Victorian & Post-Edwardian eras. It is easy to let the imagination take flight and picture Lady Mary from Downton Abbey using products like these!

The Rose Milk Cleanser, in a beautiful glass bottle, is rich and creamy, packed with organic rose and pure plant oils that leave your skin incredibly soft and hydrated. It's good for all skin types. 99.9% of people who try this product fall in love with it and declare they don't know how they lived without it. It is that good!
